We require a deposit to hold the survey date.

Limitation Clause:

The vessel must be ready in all respects for survey inspection on the date specified.

Responsibility for the cost of the survey is by those parties requesting the survey.

It is understood that the party requesting such services agrees to pay those costs at the day of the survey, unless other arrangements have been made and agreed to by the attending surveyor.

The survey is Non Destructive in its approach and no boring, major dismantling, disassembly, or opening of the hull, machinery or its components is to take place unless otherwise agreed to by the vessel's owner(s) and upon payment of further fees for those additional services rendered.

The surveyor is not responsible for the moving of heavy gear (i.e. anchors, chains, sails, tools, ballast, or other heavy items).

If any disagreement arising from this survey occurs then it is agreed upon by all parties concerned that the matter be settled via Arbitration only, utilizing the given and established rules and procedures of the American Arbitration Society.

In the event that the attending surveyor is negligent or the report omits any information, the limit of the surveyor's liability is in the amount of the survey fee for the vessel in question only and no other liability is to take place.
